

Bô Yin Râ (1876-1943)

Lux in tenebris

Olymp

About the Art of Dying

The very essence of this art consist in being ready, at any moment of one's earthly life – in the midst of busiest activity and planning for the future, in perfect health and at the peak of physical vitality – to cross the threshold of other life forever, without all hope of coming back; and, furthermore, to do this willingly, in joyful, confident serenity.

The Book on Life Beyond. From "The Art of Dying"

All man's fear of death results from the unwillingness of his eternal will – now directed toward the realm of matter – to turn itself around: reversing the direction it had taken after what became its "fall" from the domain of timeless light.

The Book on Life Beyond. From "The Only Absolute Reality"

www.kober.com

<http://www.boyinra.org/>